Chapter 1 by Eva

Do you ever just want to be by yourself? Well to day Alex Jones was by herself reading in her room. She hopped up and went to the kitchen to find her mum, who would probably be baking something for her to eat. But as she walked down the hall she noticed there was not one sound coming from the house. She couldn't hear her mum singing and she couldn't hear all the banging on the roof from her dad. Their probably just on a walk, thought Alex. But they never would leave her at home with no one to watch her. Her heart skipped a beat. She ran out side and looked around frantically. She started to wonder weather they had just abandoned her. She ran back inside and shoved a water bottle, jumper, a loaf of bread, undies and some extra socks in her bag. She ran out the door once more and stated the search.

Alex Jones and her mother and father lived in a country house surrounded by a thick forest. With no neighbours or any community living even close! They didn't even have a mobile phone! Alex took a deep breath in and headed for the forest.
